Roy's expertise is in the management of third party certification programs, covering all applicable standards in Australia. He has been the Victorian State Manager of three other Third Party Certification Bodies for a total of eleven years.

For more than 17 years, Roy has provided consultancy in management system development and implementation. Industries include Construction, Mining, Electrical, Water and Sewer Authorities, Local, State and Federal Government, to mention a few.

Teaming up with his wife Susan, Roy conducts QA, OHS and EMS Contract Compliance Audits on some of Australia's major road projects including Bypass Freeways at Hallam, Craigieburn, Albury/Wodonga, Pakenham, Geelong, Deer Park and Nagambie. Each of these projects exceeded $100 million in value and this work began in 2002. To date, over 110 audits have been conducted, covering ISO9001, AS4801 and ISO14001.

In 2003 a major Electricity Network Distributor engaged Roy to conduct compliance audits on electrical installation works to Australian and Industry specific standards in the Melbourne and Geelong regions. He now delivers VEDN Accreditation to over 30% of the market.

Roy managed two State Government Projects for the audit of the delivery of training programs by thirty Registered Training Providers on behalf of the Victorian WorkCover Authority. These projects involved nine auditors who undertook audits of training provider records, reports and assessments of course attendees. Roy submitted the successful tender, met with the Construction Industry Stakeholders, prepared the audit methodology and audit report formats and scheduled the project deliveries. He also reviewed and assessed every report and tabulated a detailed summary of findings. Comprehensive reports were then tabled with WorkCover and the Stakeholders, identifying the level of overall compliance to the standards set down for the training providers. The projects were delivered early and the result was Interstate Recognition of Victoria's Red Card Training Program.

Roy was one of Australia's first registered auditors of quality systems in the construction industry and provides the skill, knowledge and experience to deliver training, system development, project management and continuous improvement programs. Roy was also one of the first registered Civil Contractors Federation Auditors when the CCF program was established and has conducted many audits in this program (based on ISO9001, AS4801 and ISO14001).
